LONDON, August 2.

A SQUADRON of men of war, with transports, are ordered to be fitted out immediately, on board of which eight regiments are to be embarked, with a proportionate train of artillery.

The regiments from Ireland ordered to America are, the 17th, 27th, 28th, 46th, and 55th, with 4 companies of artillery from Woolwich, and 150 matrosses have received orders to hold themselves in readiness.

Orders are given for 400 horses to be sent over, with their provender, to Boston, for the use of the king's troops, and to sail with all expedition. (By way of fresh provisions.)

On Monday an order was sent to the navy office to get ready immediately, to put to sea, ten sail of the line; their destination is unknown, but supposed for the American service.

Monday four houses of rendezvous were opened at Rotherhithe, for the purpose of enlisting seamen to man the ships now fitting out for America.

This morning a commission passed the great seal of England, constituting and appointing general Gage to be captain general and general governor over all North America.

We are assured it is under consideration to form a parliament, or general council, for all the provinces in America, something similar to that of Ireland, the governors and some particular officers to form an upper-house.

Orders are given for the serjeants and corporals, as well as private men, belonging to the militia, not to be absent out of the county to which they belong in future, without a furlow or leave for that purpose.

This morning forty recruits were sent off from the Savoy, accompanied by a serjeant's guard, to Portsmouth, where they are to be shipped for America.

This morning two houses of rendezvous were opened in Saint Catharine's, and a bounty offered to seamen that would enlist there, to go on board the ships that are ordered for Boston.

Some are of opinion that the five regiments, viz. the 17th, 27th, 28th, 46th, and 55th, the officers of which are ordered immediately to join their regiments in Ireland, are not intended for Boston, but part for South Carolina, and the other for some intermediate port between that and Boston, in order to keep the provincials from sending any assistance to the last mentioned port.

We are credibly informed that several of the officers in general Gage's army have wrote over to their friends of the great dissatisfaction they have in the present service; and that the soldiers in general are much dispirited.

The quantity of wheat in Bristol is immense, almost every warehouse, malthouse and granary, being filled with it; and so scarce is warehouse room, that we are assured one person last week took no less than six of the void houses in Bridgestreet for that purpose, and the rest are mostly engaged.

August 4. Yesterday the lady of the earl of Dunmore, lately arrived from Virginia, and the lady of governor Johnson, from Minorca, were severally presented to the queen.

Eight men of war, from 40 to 50 guns each, are ordered for the American station, the other ships now there being ordered home as too large for the service.

August 5. General Amherst will certainly set out in a few days for Boston.

Last Tuesday some unlucky, but genteel youths, went to one of the temporary cook shops in Covent Garden, and one of them said to his companions: "I'll shew you how the Americans intend to serve Boston. You must suppose that pan over the charcoal fire to be the town, and the sausages in it to be general Gage and the king's troops, and then (says he) they will be served thus," when he threw a paper with some gunpowder in it under the pan, which immediately blew the sausages, &c. into the air. "There (cries he) now you may see where Boston is, and also how the Americans will learn general Gage and his soldiers to fly without wings." He then gave the woman a guinea for the loss of her goods, who was very well satisfied about the matter.

The 27th ult fifty silk weavers enlisted at Dublin as volunteers, with the party of marines recruiting in that city.

We hear that the men of war, now getting ready for America, when finished and manned, are to sail with five transports to Ireland, which it is expected will be in three weeks at farthest, and there to take on board nine hundred men, which reinforcement, with those from England (wind and weather permitting) will join general Gage in October next, and that several serjeants in the guards are to be promoted, and sent to America as subaltern officers to that body of men, which is to be new raised.

On Saturday, in the afternoon, several thousand weight of gunpowder, soldiers accoutrements, bedding, and stands of arms, were shipped at the Tower for North America.

Orders are given to the cruizers on the North American station to seize all vessels, of whatever nation or power, which are found within a certain distance of the ports there, which are now shut up.

Yesterday lord Frederick Cavendish took leave of his majesty at St. James's, being to join his regiment in Ireland, which is ordered to embark for America. At the same time lord Masham took leave of his majesty on the same occasion.

Fourteen thousand suits of green regimentals are ordered to be made up with expedition, and sent for the use of the regulars at Boston. All are to be faced with red, and the difference only will be in trimming the button holes with various colours. Officers and private men will be alike.

Yesterday morning the four companies of the royal regiment of artillery embarked at Woolwich for America, and the same number of men are to be forthwith raised.

Orders are sent to Cork and Kinsale to provide quarters immediately for eight regiments of foot, which are to be quartered there for the greater convenience of embarkation.

Orders are sent to Dock, near Plymouth, for the regiment lying in barracks at that place to hold themselves in readiness to embark for America on the shortest notice.

Colonel Pigot is said to be coming home; and it is also said that admiral Graves is coming home, and that commodore Shuldham, who is going to America with more ships, is to have the command on that station.

This being old St. James's day, the first of oysters, for this season, were brought to Billingsgate. There were ten boats full there this morning, when they sold for ten shillings the bushel.

August 7. The parliament, we are assured from unquestionable authority, will assemble much earlier than was at first imagined; some say about Michælmas, but it is believed, at all events, by the second week in October; and the principal motives assigned for this unprecedented and unexpected early meeting are the following: To grant money for the purpose of raising and paying new levies; to authorize his majesty, in case of necessity, to take sixteen thousand Hanoverians into pay; to grant money throughout England; and, in case the Americans should shew a disposition to return to their duty, to consult parliament on the conditions proper to be granted them.

Lord Dunmore, we hear, will certainly be recalled, and succeeded by a military governor.

Governor Tryon at New York is to be made a general, and to join governor Carleton in the march to attack the provincials in the back settlements.

It is whispered that government has ordered general Gage to offer five thousand pounds to any person or persons who will bring him general Putnam's head. This has been privately communicated to most of the royalists in and about Boston who could be confided in.

The public are hereby apprized, from authority of the most unquestionable nature, that the surrender of Canada to the French is now in agitation. This important province, acquired at such immense expenditure of blood and treasure, is now to be restored to France, to fulfil, as supposed, a secret article in the last most dishonourable peace.

The right honourable the earl of Chatham lies dangerously ill at his seat at Hayes. The gout has left his lordship some time, and was succeeded with a disorder of the nature of a tertian ague, and from that it is thought, by the very great weakness of his body, that a complication of disorders will ensue, which makes his recovery at this time very doubtful.

Extract of a letter from an officer on board the Endeavour bark, captain Cook, just returned from a voyage round the world, dated Portsmouth, June 26.

"You will be diverted at hearing of our discovering a nation of pigmies in the course of this voyage, which, though not so small as Gulliver has represented his Lilliputians, are yet of a diminutive size to cause both laughter and astonishment. I am not at liberty to mention the latitude and longitude of the country of this little people; suffice it to say, it was in a high southern one. The men are from three feet four inches to three feet eight inches; but none of the women are more than three feet, and many not so much by some inches.

"The weather was warm when we made this part of the coast (it being the middle of the month of January) and consequently their summer. Their dress was the feathers of birds, sewed in rows upon a substance very much resembling the bark of the trees at Otaheite, with which the natives there make their garments.

"There are degrees of subordination amongst these small people, the superior kind of whom are known by a circle of red feathers, which surround them a little below the shoulders; the women have no such distinction, but wear the garment rather longer than that of the men, and their feather cap terminates in a sharp point at top, while that of the men is flat, and comes lower over the ears.

"Their houses are ingeniously made of twigs wattled like basket-work, between two rows of which a particular kind of earth is moistened with water, and rammed very hard, which forms an excellent and solid wall; the height of these houses is almost sixteen feet, but it is remarkable they have none of them any door, for they enter by a particular sort of ladder over the top of the wall, which ladder is every night raised off the ground to the height of eight or nine feet.

"Their cordage is very ingenious, being made of the outward rind of a fruit much resembling the cocoanut, but of the size of a large codling; these ropes serve them for many uses; amongst others, to pull up their ladder, which, though they are unacquainted with the doctrine of purchases, they do with infinite slight and ease, though they are (for them) very heavy.

"They have no boats, but make use of bark logs, like Cattamarans, in India, for the purpose of fishing and transporting themselves from place to place; they have plenty of poultry, but of a size scarcely half so large as a Bantam cock; we brought away several of these little animals, but they all died on their passage; they commonly roosted on trees in the night.

"They have an aromatic herb something like mint, which they smoke through reeds, and it diffuses a smell superior to the finest moss rose; the women wear large rows of this round their waist.

"The children go naked, but their parents rub them over several times a day with a sort of clarified fat, which keeps insects, particularly flies, at a distance, by the juice of an herb which is pressed and mixed with the potatum.

"There are infinite numbers of goats, which are the only quadrupedes we saw; these goats are about the size of our Welch ones, and serve the inhabitants to ride upon; their horns are more flat, and they are infinitely more docile than those creatures are in Europe.

"The salutation of these pigmies to one another has something singular; they join their four hands, and then bow each head till they touch each other.

"They have no idols, that we saw, but they pay adoration to the setting sun; when the lower limb of this heavenly planet touches the horizon, they extend both their hands and keep their bodies bent, muttering something with a loud voice, which, whether it is a prayer that he would not leave them, or an invocation for his return again next morning, I am not able to determine, as our stay was so short amongst them, that we could not understand any of their language, which, like the Chinese, seemed to consist principally of monosyllables."

The Dutch have been as unsuccessful this year in their whale fishery as any of their neighbours. Out of 4000 tons of shipping already returned, above one half are come home clean, not having taken any thing.

Lord North was with his majeſty at Kew laſt Saturday night till 12 o'clock, and then was eſcorted home by a party of light horſe.

A bill will be brought into the houſe to enable the Roman catholics to bear arms, to defend Ireland during the abſence of our troops.

The mangled bodies of the late unfortunate counts Struenſee and Brandt are ſtill expoſed on wheels about a mile and a half from Copenhagen. They hold up an awful and affecting leſſon for wicked ſtateſmen of all nations.

All captains, lieutenants, and enſigns, reduced with their corps, at the laſt peace, and ſtill remaining on half pay on the Engliſh eſtabliſhment, who deſire to be again employed on their preſent rank, are directed to ſignify the ſame to the ſecretary at war.

So far from any real diſagreement having ſubſiſted between the courts of Madrid and London; ſo far from the preſent armada being deſigned againſt George the third, it is aſſerted that a combination is entered into by the different crowned heads of Europe, to have a firm truce with one another, until they ſhall have ſubjugated their reſpective ſubjects. With this view the faithful Spaniard hath armed himſelf to aſſiſt the king to cruſh the American rebels in the firſt place, and afterwards to render himſelf an abſolute monarch in Britain.

Immediately on the arrival of the Cerberus frigate from Boſton, a very private conference was held between the lords Bute, North, and Gower, at Caen Wood (the ſeat of lord Mansfield) when their lordſhips greatly diſagreed on their old topic of American courage. High words enſued, and they ſeparated in the utmoſt confuſion.

An elevated court tool was yeſterday very buſy, running about from place to place, declaring the Americans would negotiate. A gentleman, who for ſome time heard his nonſenſe, at length aſked, with whom they would negotiate? With the preſent miniſters, replied the court minion. The gentleman, who was an American, ſaid the Americans will not hear a word from the preſent miniſters. If the king wiſhes to put a ſtop to the effuſion of blood, he will change his miniſters. If he wiſhes to have more lives loſt, more unhappy women made widows, and more children made fatherleſs, he will keep about him the violent, blood thirſty, Bedford faction. Is it common ſenſe, he aſked, to ſuppoſe the Americans will negotiate with lord Sandwich, who falſely, in the houſe of lords, aſſerted they were cowards, and branded them with every opprobrious epithet? Can they negotiate with lord G——, who is officially reſponſible for the Canada Popery bill, the Boſton famine bill, &c? Can they negotiate with lord S——, who voluntarily made himſelf reſponſible for all the wicked acts adopted in council, ſince he was firſt admitted there? Can they negotiate with lord North, who has ſupported, as miniſter, in parliament, all the abhorred acts againſt America? Can they negotiate with lord Dartmouth, who intereſtedly revolted from the ſide of liberty, and took a reſponſible lucrative place, in which theſe deteſted American acts officially originated? They will never negotiate with any of the tools of lord Bute and Mansfield. But they will negotiate with lord Chatham or lord Townſhend, becauſe they are men of independent principles, have never ſullied their characters, nor ever put on any man's livery.

DUBLIN, July 19. Monday laſt being Quarter day, the SOCIETY of FREE CITIZENS dined at the King's Arms in Smock alley (Mr. James Napper Tandy, preſident) when the following loyal and conſtitutional toaſts were drank: The conſtitution, and Charles the firſt's fate to him that violates it. The king and queen. May his majeſty ſoon recover the jewel he has loſt, and his only ſupport be the affections of his ſubjects. The prince of Wales, &c and may he always prefer the WHIG to the tory intereſt. Proſperity to Ireland, and may it never ſubmit to be taxed by a Britiſh parliament. The city of Dublin, and wiſdom to her magiſtrates. His grace the duke of Leinſter. Our worthy repreſentative Redmond Morris. May the ſociety of free citizens encreaſe; unanimity, moderation, and perſeverance, to them. The county of Dublin, and may it never be repreſented by a man who would diſdain to take the advice of his conſtitutents. Our fellow ſubjects in America now ſuffering perſecution for attempting to aſſert their rights and liberties. The CONTINENTAL CONGRESS; unanimity to their councils, and ſucceſs to their reſolves. The glorious memory of the great king William. The memory of the incorruptible Charles Lucas. The patriotic lord mayor and livery of London. The earl of Chatham, and may he ſoon appear at the head of an honeſt adminiſtration. The earl of Effingham, who nobly reſigned his commiſſion ſooner than embrue his hands in the blood of his countrymen. The 19th of April, 1775, and the memory of the brave Americans who fell in defending the liberties of their country. Diſgrace to the miniſtry, and perpetual defeats to the mercenaries that would endeavour to enſlave their fellow ſubjects. The firſt of July, 1690. The 12th of July, 1691. May the board that conſiders public grievances as inexpedient, becauſe important, be ever held in contempt by the free electors of Dublin. The high ſheriffs of London, and may the ſheriffs of Dublin have grace to follow their example. May the citizens of Dublin never forget the puſillanimous conduct of the preſent ſheriffs, who refuſed a compliance with the requeſt of the commons to convene the aggregate body together, to lay their grievances before the throne. The friends of liberty, and liberty to its friends. Fifteenth of June, 1215; ſixteenth of February, 1768. Sixteenth of April, 1746, and the memory of the duke of Cumberland. The two proteſtant biſhops, Exiter and St. Aſaph; Laud's fate to every biſhop that voted for the eſtabliſhment of popery in Quebec; and ſpeedy downfall to the preſent jacobite adminiſtration. Speedy diſgrace and condign puniſhment to the man who adviſed his majeſty to refuſe receiving the petition of the city of London on the throne. May thoſe whoſe forefathers expelled a tyrant from the throne, and placed the preſent family on it, never be debarred acceſs to it. May allegiance and protection go hand in hand, and the former ceaſe when the latter is denied us. The free electors of Ireland, and may they always prove the majority. May the boroughs no longer be the rotten part of the conſtitution. May the next bench of Engliſh biſhops be as well attached to the proteſtant as the preſent ſeems to be to the popiſh religion. General Putnam, and his brave provincials. The colonels Eaſton and Allen. Governor Trumbull. May the military ever be ſubſervient to the civil power. May thoſe mercenaries who are paid by the people to defend their rights never be employed to enſlave them. The 30th of January, 1648, and the memory of Oliver Cromwell. The memory of John Hampden, who, at the expence of life and fortune, oppoſed the tyranny of a king, and the unconſtitutional demands of a corrupt miniſtry. May corruption ceaſe to be the meaſures of adminiſtration. May we hand down to our children, pure and untainted, the liberty we have derived from our anceſtors. All thoſe who would rather die glorioufly fighting for the conſtitution of their country than live the ſlaves of tyranny and deſpotiſm. May the gates of Temple Bar be decorated with the heads of thoſe who adviſed the employing a military force to enſlave our fellow ſubjects in America. May perpetual union, ſocial liberty, and univerſal juſtice, prevail, and render happy the whole Britiſh empire.

CAMBRIDGE, September 28.

HIS excellency general Waſhington has been pleaſed to appoint John George Frazer, eſquire, of Virginia, aſſiſtant quarter-maſter general, in the continental army, for the diſtrict of Proſpect and Winter hills.

Laſt week governor Wentworth arrived at the Iſle of Shoals (a few leagues off Piſcataqua river) from Boſton, for the purpoſe of ſending a boat to Portſmouth with a proclamation, proroguing the general aſſembly to the 12th of April next. Having performed this important buſineſs, and taken ſeveral peeps up Piſcataqua river, he returned ſafe to Boſton.

The authority of Portſmouth, in New Hampſhire, a few days ſince diſarmed all thoſe people in that town called tories (including crown officers) who would not declare their readineſs to uſe their arms, in the preſent conteſt, in favour of the united colonies. The Sandemanians urged their religious principles in excuſe for their not taking up arms, which, as tending to effect a revolution, they could not conſcienciouſly do; but declared their intention of peaceably ſubmitting to whatever form of government might be eſtabliſhed.

One or two men of war arrived at Boſton the beginning of this week, it is ſaid from England.

Laſt Tueſday two of the regular ſoldiers deſerted from the enemy, and came over to our camp.

WORCESTER, September 29.

WE learn, by the laſt Boſton paper, that that grand rebel to his God, his country, and his king, Thomas Gage, and his deſpicable band of traitors, and military butchers, intend raiſing a regiment of "loyal fencible Americans," the command of which is already given to one Gorham, who ſerved laſt war in America. We are told that ſome head tories, a few negroes, and ſome Scotch rebels and convicts, have already inliſted. Whether a regiment of ſuch beings can be called "loyal fencible Americans," the world can judge. We are likewiſe informed by the ſaid Boſton paper, that regiments ſimilar to the above are forming in the other colonies. Yes, ye Judaſes, for your conſolation we would inform you, that (excluſive of our army in camp) regiments of truly "loyal fencible Americans" are now raiſing from Nova Scotia to the Floridas, who are determined to defend their liberties and properties, and to reſiſt, while life laſts, the tyranny of your maſter the Devil, whoſe viceregents in the Britiſh dominians are Bute and North. Rebels! remember that Americans revere their king while he governs righteouſly; they love their country, and are ready to bleed in its behalf. But ye, ye butchers, diſgrace your king, and millions yet unborn will curſe your memory!

Yeſterday a waggon load of money paſſed through this town, from Philadelphia, for the uſe of the continental army.

Mr. PINKNEY,

THE vile INQUISITOR in your laſt, to uſe his own favourite word, hath kept cloſe to the method adopted by the inquiſition in countries where that vile tyranny prevails; for there perſons are condemned without a hearing, on general accuſations, without being confronted with, or even knowing their accuſer; a vile practice, deteſted by all who lay any claim to either civil or religious freedom. Let this general anſwer, therefore, ſerve for his general accuſation: The INQUISITOR is a vile calumniator.

WINKFIELD.

ON THE DEATH OF JOHN BOWDOIN, ESQUIRE, OF NORTHAMPTON.

His ſaltem accumem donis, et fungar inani
Munere. VIRGIL.

WHILE o'er thee, BOWDOIN, all my grief I pour,
And my laſt friend in thee, alas! deplore;
While ſcenes of horror all around I view,
And doleful moans more bitter pangs renew;
Though ill diſpos'd to try the melting lay,
Yet the ſad impulſe I can't diſobey.
Then thus my tribute freely I impart,
The mournful tribute of a grateful heart;
Thus o'er thy corpſe while anxiouſly I bend,
And vent my ſorrow o'er my much lov'd friend;
Accept, dear ſhade! the homage of a muſe,
Who could in life no friendly act refuſe;
Who ſhall in death your memory adore
Till life is ended, and the bard no more.
Hard is the taſk the virtuous dead to praiſe,
But harder ſtill no monument to raiſe.
To merit, candour prompts the bard to pay,
At leaſt, the ſlender tribute of his lay;
Bids him tranſmit to every future ſon
The deeds, the acts, for which his ſire was known;
Bids him commemorate the genial ſoul
Whoſe thoughts his reaſon could alone controul;
To call to view the hoſpitable board,
And the gay tranſports of its gen'rous lord;
His firm exertions in his country's cauſe,
Her injur'd rights, and violated laws;
His deteſtation of tyrannic ſway,
And the poor minions who would ſuch obey;
In ſhort, the friendſhip which he ever bore
To the deſerving rich, or virtuous poor.
But need I more? Through ev'ry walk of life,
Kindly indulgent to his virtuous wife,
His tender children, and his friends, he ſped,
And drew down bleſſings on his hoary head.
But what avails it, ſince ſuch deeds can't ſave
This laſt dear friend from his untimely grave?
O fate! too hard my deſtiny you rule;
Why not cut off ſome raſcal, knave, or fool?
Thrice from my heart the tend'reſt ſtrings you tore,
Since firſt I viſited this hapleſs ſhore:
Firſt EVAN, then HEWITT, now my BOWDOIN dies,
And the third victim mounts the azure ſkies;
While we, abſorb'd in deepeſt grief and woe,
Pour out our ſorrows in this vale below;
Forever mourn, and oh! lament the day
That from our converſe ſwept ſuch men away;
Men whoſe examples might reform the times,
If virtuous acts could militate 'gainſt crimes.
But whither gone, you doubtleſs range th' abodes,
'Midſt choirs of ſeraphs, thron'd among the Gods;
Or whether you hover in yon refulgent ray,
And dart your influence from the realms of day;
Or in ſome planet, whirl'd from pole to pole,
You ſtill enlarge the ideas of your ſoul:
Hear, O my BOWDOIN, hear our cries and moans,
Excuſe our tears, our ſorrow, and our groans;
Accept our pray'rs, your kindeſt influence ſhed
On ev'ry virtuous, ev'ry friendly head;
Join with your friends, ſupport your country's cauſe,
Eſpouſe her rights, and ſtill aſſert her laws.
Heaven's dread force ſhall cruſh our fordid foes,
And ſoon o'erwhelm them with inceſſant woes.
Hard, that when war's enlarging horrors ſpread,
And pours a bloody deluge o'er each mead,
The beſt, the braveſt, by ſome fatal doom,
Should ſink inglorious to the ſilent tomb,
When, if revers'd by Heav'n, their fervent zeal,
For Heav'n-taught rights, and for the common weal,
Might prompt their ſouls ſome glorious ſchemes to try,
To raiſe their names, and ſoar aloft on high;
But the Creator of the world, who rules
This earthly ball by laws not made in ſchools,
Has thought quite otherwiſe; then learn, by times,
To venerate the Sov'reign of all climes:
O learn his will, and pioufly adore,
Await the iſſue, and be vain no more!

WORCESTER, October 6.

A CORRESPONDENT at Cambridge has favoured us with the following: Two deſerters came over on Monday night; they belonged to the 10th regiment. I ſpoke with them: They ſay there are hardly 6000 effective men in Boſton, and 2000 ſick. Gage expects 10 regiments of foot, and 2 of dragoons, and pretends they are actually now at ſea. They farther ſay, that, with all their expectations, they are extremely apprehenſive of a viſit from the provincials; are much diſpirited, have not a taſte of freſh proviſions, and would almoſt all deſert if they could. Theſe men brought off with them their arms, 30 rounds of powder, and a new boat. Three veſſels have juſt arrived at Boſton with ſome ſtores. Colonel Arnold failed on Tueſday fe'nnight from Newbury Port, and on Saturday morning was upwards of 70 miles up Kennebec in ſafety. A captain of the 59th regiment (but lately made ſuch) loſt his leg by one of our cannon balls, and died 3 days after.

From a correſpondent at camp. "Since my laſt, the news here is, that a ſmall detachment of our army, on Tueſday night, landed on Governor's Iſland, and carried off all the ſtock, except the horſes, which not having boats, for they killed about 50. This morning news came in from Marblehead, that a veſſel, ſent from Boſton to New Providence, in the Bahamas, for fruit and turtle, and having 120 of the latter on board, came, either accidentally or deſignedly, to Marblehead, where they were all ſeized, and are now on the road hither. What a baulk to the poor garriſon, and what vexation to think the Yankees ſhould regale on what they themſelves had feaſted of in imagination."

Admiral Graves is ſuperſeded; but who is appointed in his room we have not heard.

The enemy are now preparing to ſend off from Boſton ſeveral men of war, and a number of troops, ſuppoſed to be on ſome plundering, robbing expedition.

We are informed, that 3 or 4 of our friends lately confined in Boſton, in order to regain their liberty, pretended they were friends to toryiſm; on which they were permitted to embark on board a veſſel, and to ſail from Boſton in company with two real tories. When they had got off to a convenient diſtance from the ſeat of deſpotiſm, our friends above mentioned obliged their two tory companions to accompany hem into Salem, where the veſſel arrived laſt Tueſday.

NEW YORK, October 12.

THE accounts brought by captain John Lawrence mention that 10,000 tons of ſhipping were taken up in one day, in order to carry troops to Boſton, and that general Monckton was named to ſucceed general Gage in the command of the army in the Maſſachuſetts Bay.

Extract of a letter from Cambridge.

Doctor Church (ſurgeon general of the army, and chairman of the committee of ſafety at Watertown) having been found guilty of traiterous practices, in correſponding with the enemy, is put under an arreſt."

We are informed that Doctor Church is confined in a houſe oppoſite to the head quarters in Cambridge. His correſpondence, it is ſaid, was carried on in cyphers with a field officer in general Gage's army.

Extract of a letter from Hartford.

"It is reported that general Waſhington, a few days ago, ſent in a flag of truce to Boſton, propoſing an exchange of priſoners: Major French for colonel Parker, lieutenant Knight, of the navy, for captain Scott, and his excellency governor Skeen for corporal Cruiſe, of captain Doudle's company of riflemen; the two former were accepted with readineſs; but the laſt exchange general Gage rejected with ſcorn, as an inſult to his underſtanding; ſo that in all probability we ſhall have the honour of his excellency governor Skeen's reſidence among us; God knows how long."

Yeſterday came to town a number of Paxton boys, dreſſed and painted in the Indian faſhion, being part of a body of 200 volunteers, who are on their way to general Waſhington's army at Cambridge. Several of them, we hear, are young gentlemen of fortune.

We hear from St. John's that captain Preſcot, commander of the fort, ſent word to general Montgomery that he would deliver it up to him if he would permit him and the king's troops to march to Quebec with their arms, ſtores, and artillery; but the general refuſed to comply with his requeſt.

Governor Carleton, it is ſaid, has bought up all the powder from the merchants at Quebec, and ſtored it there; the whole of which amounts to upwards of 10,000 barrels.

Extract of a letter from the camp at Cambridge, from undoubted authority, dated October 9.

"By an intelligent perſon from Boſton, I am informed that a fleet, conſiſting of one 64, and one 20 gun ſhip, two ſloops of 18 guns, two tranſports with 600 men, were to ſail from Boſton as yeſterday; their deſtination is a profound ſecret: That they took on board 2 mortars and 4 howitzers, with other artillery, calculated for the borbardment of a town. I have thought it proper to apprize every conſiderable town on the coaſt of this armament, that they may be on their guard. Should I receive any farther account of their deſtination, it ſhall be forwarded. The ſame perſon alſo informs, that an expreſs ſloop arrived 4 days before, from England at Boſton, which ſhe left the 8th of Auguſt: General Gage, and moſt of the officers who were at Lexington, are recalled, and ſail this day; general Howe ſucceeds to the command. Six ſhips of the line and two cutters, under ſir Peter Dennis, are coming out; 5 regiments and 1000 marines may be expected at Boſton in 3 or 4 weeks. No proſpect of accommodation; but, on the other hand, every appearance of the war being puſhed with the utmoſt vigour."

Captain Lindſey, who arrived at Cambridge from Norwich a few days ago, informs us, that capt. Wallace had made a demand on all the live ſtock in Rhode Iſland, but the inhabitants in the neighbourhood had aſſembled, and conveyed them all to Briſtol; that the people had taken the doctor of the Roſe priſoner; there are 4 men of war beſides tranſports, and a number of tenders, and that the man of war fired on the town of Briſtol, and had burnt it half down; that Wallace had threatened to batter down Newport, if they did not deliver his doctor, and all his ſtock, by Friday, 10 o'clock; that a Connecticut privateer had taken a ſhip, captain Barron, from New York, loaded with wheat, and carried her into New London, and was unloading her, and intended to take her up the river as far as poſſible.

WILLIAMSBURG.

WHEREAS lord Dunmore, not contented with having involved the affairs of this colony in extreme confuſion by withdrawing himſelf unneceſſarily from the adminiſtration of government, and exciting an inſurrection of our ſlaves, hath lately, in conjunction with the officers of the navy, proceeded to commence hoſtilities againſt his majeſty's peaceable ſubjects in the town and neighbourhood of Norfolk, captivated many, and ſeized the property of others, particularly ſlaves, who are detained from the owners, ſtopped all intercourſe between the inhabitants of that borough and the other parts of the colony, except by ſuch as are inimical to the rights of America, by means of whom proviſions ore ſupplied to the troops, and intelligence conveyed to his lordſhip of every material tranſaction, whilſt none of his pernicious deſigns can tranſpire in the country until they are manifeſted by the execution of them, the committee of ſafety, in order to counteract, as far as they can, ſo unjuſtifiable a partiality, have unanimouſly reſolved that no perſon whatſoever ſhall be allowed to paſs to or from the borough of Norfolk, or town of Portſmouth, without a permit from the ſaid committee, or the committee of the county or corporation wherein ſuch perſon reſides, or from the commanding officer of one of the regiments, or of a detachment therefrom, or from the commanding officer of a company or detachment of minutemen or militia, in actual ſervice at the time of ſuch permit; and all committees, and all officers, both civil and military, and all other perſons, friends to America, are deſired to attend to this reſolution.

By order of the committee of ſafety.

JOHN PENDLETON, junior, clerk.

Died, in the flower of her age, Mrs. CATHARINE DERRICOTT. This amiable lady, a correſpondent informs us, poſſeſſed almoſt every chriſtian virtue. The poor have cauſe to lament their loſs, for ſhe was charatable to an extreme; her huſband can never forget her, for ſhe was the moſt dutiful of wives; and her ſex muſt own that ſhe was the moſt conſpicuous example of chaſtity, virtue, and religion.

To the PRINTER.

THE affair at Hampton is at once a proof of the natural bravery of our countrymen, of the excellence of their aim in firing, and of the inſignificancy of tenders. No troops could ſhew more intrepidity than the raw, new raiſed men, under the command of captain Nicholas, of the ſecond regiment, and captain Lyne, of the minute men, together with ſome of the country militia. Theſe brave young officers, at the head of their men, without the leaſt cover or breaſt-work, on the open ſhore, ſtood a diſcharge of 4 pounders, and other cannon, from a large ſchooner commanded by captain Squire himſelf, and from a ſloop and two tenders, which played on them with all their guns, ſwivels, and muſkets. They ſtood coolly till the veſſels were near enough for them to do execution, when they began a briſk and well directed fire, which forced the little ſquadron to retire. In the night the tenders forced their way through the veſſels which were ſunk in the mouth of the river, and came cloſe up to the very town, on which they fired till they were again repulſed with the loſs of 9 men killed on board the ſchooner, and many wounded, 2 killed on board a tender which was boarded and taken, and from which lieutenant Write, of the Otter, made his eſcape wounded, by ſwimming to the ſchooner on the oppoſite ſhore. Colonel Woodford, who had juſt entered the town as the fire began, with a reinforcement of 50 fine riflemen under the command of captain Bluford, an experienced and brave rifleman, compleated the victory; and we have no doubt, could they have arrived an hour ſooner, ſo as to have poſted their men properly, that the ſchooner and tenders would have been taken.

It is very remarkable, and ought to be looked upon as an inſtance of the divine protection, that not one of our men was even wounded in the ſeveral attacks.

The colonel writes that all the men behaved with great reſolution, and were too eager. The troops in town are in high ſpirits, and wiſh for an attack in this quarter; they are all excellent marksmen, and fine, bold fellows. After all the firing at the houſes in Hampton, there were only a few windows broke, and a door pannel. Lord Dunmore may now ſee he has not cowards to deal with. Every praiſe is due to captain Nicholas and captain Lyne; they deſerve the warmeſt thanks of their country, and the praiſes of poſterity. The ſoldiers, it is ſaid, by the advice of the colonel, are to have the prize divided amongſt them for their bravery.

It is ſaid captain Lyne, who fired the firſt gun in the attack at the mouth of the river, killed a man by that very fire.

Several of lord Dunmore's men we are aſſured are taken priſoners.

FALLS of JAMES RIVER, October 25, 1775.

AT the earneſt ſolicitation of many gentlemen on Potowmack, and influenced by my own intereſt on that river, I have been endeavouring to open its navigation from tide-water upwards, and have been at conſiderable expence in preparation, &c. to forward that uſeful work; but the neceſſity of a Maryland act of aſſembly co-operating with one paſſed in Virginia, and which I have not yet been able to obtain, has obliged me to decline it for the preſent.

This diſappointment would be more affecting if it did not afford me an opportunity of employing my time and attention in opening and extending the navigation of James river, which, though a work leſs intereſting to me, is of equal utility to the public; but to make my intereſt in ſome meaſure correſpond with the public's, I have paid 560l. ſterling to Mr. Patrick Coutts for the lands ſituate on the river, where the water muſt be taken out into the canal, and where I have began and done ſome part of the canal, with other improvements very expenſive.

I therefore inform the public, that having a fee ſimple therein, I am going on with the canal at my own expence, and will further riſk my whole fortune and time on the ſucceſs of my undertaking, and deſire no aid or aſſiſtance until I make the navigation ſafe and eaſy to Shockoe warehouſes, expecting, nevertheleſs, the more large and generous contributions from all who benefit, when the work is done.

N. B. I want to hire a hundred SLAVES for the above purpoſe, and ſhould be glad to treat with any perſon or perſons inclinable; at the ſame time could aſſiſt with the beſt part of their winter cloathing, if not otherwiſe provided.

POETS CORNER.

On the DEATH of a LADY's DOG.

THOU, happy creature, art secure
From all the troubles we endure;
Deſpairs ambition, jealouſy,
Loſt friends, nor love, diſquiet thee.
A ſullen prudence drew thee hence,
From noiſe, fraud, and impertinence.
Though life eſſay'd the ſureſt wile,
Gilding itſelf with LAURA's ſmile,
How didſt thou ſcorn life's meaner charms,
Thou who could'ſt break thro' LAURA's arms!
Poor cynic! ſtill methinks I hear
Thy awful murmurs in my ear,
As when on LAURA's lap you lay,
Chiding the worthleſs croud away.
How fondly human paſſions turn!
What then we envy'd now we mourn.

On HOPE.

SOFT ſmiling HOPE, thou anchor of the mind,
The only reſting place the wretched find,
How doſt thou all our anxious cares beguile,
And make the orphan and the friendleſs ſmile!
All fly to thee, thou gentle dawn of peace,
The coward's fortitude, the brave's ſucceſs,
The lover's eaſe, the captive's liberty,
The only flatt'rer of the poor and me;
With thee, on pleaſure's wings, thro' life we're borne,
Without thee, wretched, friendleſs, and forlorn;
Poſſeſs'd of thee, the weary pilgrim ſtrays
Thro' barren deſarts and untrodden ways;
Thirſty and faint, his nerves new vigour ſtrings,
And, full of thee, he quaffs immortal ſprings;
The martyr'd ſaint, whom anguiſh and the rod
Have prov'd, thro' thee, walks worthy of his God;
In vain are axes, flames, and torturing wheels,
He feels no torment who no terror feels;
Thro' thee his well try'd ſpirit upward ſprings,
And ſpurns at titles, ſceptres, thrones, and kings.
O! full of thee, in quiet may I live
The few remaining moments Heav'n ſhall give!
Come then, thou honeſt flatt'rer, to my breaſt,
Friend of my health, and author of my reſt,
Thro' thee, the future, cloudleſs all, appears
A ſhort but ſmiling train of happy years;
Paſs but this inſtant, ſtorms and tempeſts ceaſe,
And all beyond, the promiſ'd land of peace.

IN July laſt the high ſheriff of Charles City adverti ſed two negroes, MICHAEL and AARON, late my property, who broke gaol and eſcaped whilſt under ſentence of death. ON Monday the 20th of November, the ſubſcriber, or ſome perſon for him, will attend at Dinwiddie court, and Tueſday and Wedneſday following at Sammons's tavern, to receive payment for the bonds due to captain Thomas Holt's eſtate, for ſundries ſold at Namozeen plantation. In the abſence of the ſubſcriber from home, between the 20th of November and the 1ſt of December, the bonds due for the ſale in Surry will be lodged in the hands of Mr. William Harriſs, to receive paymen. I deſire the favour of all thoſe who have any demands againſt the ſaid Holt to produce them between the 1ſt of December and the 1ſt of January, properly authenticated, to receive payment, either in caſh or bonds.

IF the gentleman who adverties in this paper for a perſon capable of teaching the GREEK and LATIN languages will pleaſe to acquaint captain Carr, in Dumfries, with his terms, he will be waited upon, if the terms pleaſe, by a young man juſt arrived from Britain, who has had a regular education at the univerſity, and who likewiſe has had a good deal of practice in teaching the above branches.

RUN away from the ſubſcriber, on the 28th of Auguſt, a low, well ſet negro man, of a yellowiſh complexion, named Sampſon, about 20 years of age. He had on when he went away an oznabrig ſhirt, crocus trowſers, and a good felt hat; but he being a cunning, ſubtle fellow, it is imagined he may have other clothes. He got away once before, and was found ſkulking about the ſhipping at Leedſtown. It is probable he may again make to ſome port, and endeavour to get out of the country, unleſs he is ſtopped. Whoever apprehends the ſaid ſlave, and brings him to me, living near Fauquier courthouſe, ſhall have THREE POUNDS reward, if taken up out of the ſaid county. 3 SAMUEL PORTER.

SURRY, September 15, 1775.

All perſons who are willing to enter into the ſervice for a year at the leaſt, and can come well recommended for ſkill and ſobriety, are deſired to attend; if agreed with, they will have good encouragement, according to their merit, and, at all events, be paid for their attendence and travelling. Good lockſmiths are much wanting.

FOUR POUNDS REWARD.

RAN away from the ſubſcriber on the 10th inſtant (September) two ſervant men, viz. THOMAS HART, 23 years of age, a native of Ireland, and a tailor by trade, about 5 feet 8 inches high, with dark brown coloured hair, and both of his little fingers are crooked; he had on when he went away an oznabrig ſhirt and trowſers, a claret coloured coat and veſt. JOSIAH BAILEY, 25 years of age, an Engliſhman, a leather breeches maker by trade, about 5 feet 9 or 10 inches high, with light brown hair, and has a ſcar on his breaſt, occaſioned by a ſcald. As he walks he hangs his head, and takes ſhort ſteps. He had on when he went away an oznabrig ſhirt and trowſers, a red coloured coat and jacket of Welch plains, and a pair of leather breeches. Whoever ſecures the above ſervants, ſo that I get them again, ſhall receive THREE POUNDS reward, and if delivered to me, in Frederickſburg, ſhall receive FOUR POUNDS, or TWO POUNDS for each.
1* WILLIAM BLYTH.

RAN away from the ſubſcribers, living in Prince George county, Maryland, near Snoden's iron works, two convict ſervants, both Iriſhmen. FRANCIS MATTHEWS, a thin made fellow, about 19 or 20 years of age, 5 feet 5 inches high, and ſtoops much in his walk; he has a ſcar over his right eye, and is much pitted with the ſmallpox. He had on when he went away a crocus ſhirt, a pair of ſacking trowſers, a ſhort old Swanſkin jacket, and his fingers on the left hand are near of a length. MICHAEL CONROY, a well made fellow, about 25 years of age, 5 feet 8 inches high, with a fair complexion, is much freckled, and pitted with the ſmallpox. He had on when he went away an oznabrig ſhirt, a country cloth jacket, lined with oznabrigs, a pair of crocus trowſers, and a pair of old ſhoes, and pretends to be a ſhoemaker. They are both great villains, for they will ſteal any thing that is in their way. Whoever takes up the ſaid ſervants, and brings them to me, ſhall receive FIVE POUNDS for each.

RUN away from the ſubſcriber, in the upper end of Spotſylvania, the 20th of May laſt, JOSEPH INGRAM, an Engliſh convict ſervant man, 27 years of age, about 5 feet 7 inches high, rather ſmaller built than the common ſize of men, with dark hair, his complexion rather pale, has a ſly caſt with his eyes, a round face, a peaked noſe, wears whiſkers, and a kind of a dimple, or ſomething like it, on his chin; he has a ſcar on one of his arms below his elbow, talks ſomething quick, and much of it when a little groggy, and can ſing well.
